Sustainability, it's more than a lifestyle

The UN defines 17 Sustainable Development Goals that were agreed to by over 190 countries to focus on things like pollution, famine, poverty, and climate change. At Amaized, we only focus on ONE goal. That is to reinvent how merchants respond to the growing demand for to-go convenience.

Sustainability is more than a lifestyle task. It is a "wicked problem" which requires collaborative efforts from a large group of brain trust including the community, investors, consumers, supply chain service providers, and manufacturers. Amaized is trying to be part of it by applying creative solutions to transform this challenge to a new business opportunity.

ABOUT US

Our Story

We are a typical family business sharing a compelling vision that interests everyone. Interested by the vision of sustainability, we began to think about how we could contribute to this trend. Having seen the damage that disposable plastic wastes were doing to the environment, we wanted to do something to mitigate the pollutive consequence.

After having talked with a number of experts in the material field, we eventually selected paperboard as the substitute. We registered with the name Amaized because we wanted to show you the commitment to creating the best-ever paperboard product and to get you constantly amazed,

In May 2019, we were quickly committed to find a location for a factory and began to develop our first cutlery set. It was a tough process and we had to face countless problems that we had not have expected. Thanks to our strong technical background, we managed to conquer all the obstacles and launched the first product end of the year.

In the following years, we continued to revamp the production process and reengineered product design to enhance performance. Although our products already amazed many clients, we were never satisfied and felt it an obligation to improve the product even more.

Capacity is the next focus. We know that we should be able to provide the right product at the right volume. Restrained by financial resources, we had to review our production process and began to change everything. We retrofitted and transformed certain production equipment to improve its efficiency. We adopt a collaborative approach when making and changing tooling. These efforts all contribute to lowered costs and improved quality.

As a family team, we believe in ourselves and the career we are building. We have the relationship capital to sustain our transgenerational commitment to creating value for our clients.
